Eskimos Close League Season This Evening

Play Calgary Tigers in Last Contest of League Schedule—Joe to Good Shape and Both Teams Will Have Their Regular Lineup Working—Kates Has Chance to Overtake Hay

Tonight the Eskimos play the last of their league game, Calgary is the opponent. The game will be played at 8 o'clock on Friday which will be the last match in Edmonton this winter. Many fans thought that the game on Friday night was over, but it was not. They were mistaken. The teams played just the same as if the championship depended on the outcome. Nothing is at stake tonight, so far as the game is concerned, but hockey will be played just as fast as it was on Friday.

Joe in Good
Yesterday had a dozen practice pucks and played it on the ice and the team had a working game at top speed. There was enough frost during the night to permit of several footings and that tonight it should offer an excellent surface.

The lineup of the teams was not known last night but the regular lineups will probably use their regular lineups.

Tonight's game gives Duke Kates a chance to show his stuff. He is only one point behind in the league and he has finished his league schedule. He is a bit out of the game but it is not outside of a possibility that he could overtake him.

OUR HAM-STRUNG LEGISLATION.

A delegation representing opponents of the proposal to re-install beer in the province for the sale of beer waited on the Provincial government on Thursday and presented four requests. They asked—
1.—That no plebiscite be held on the question of issuing beer licenses to the hotels under the petition asking for such change in the law and policy of the province be found to be in order as required under the present legislation act.
2.—That if a referendum is to be held the voters should be given an opportunity to say whether or they are in favor of continuing the present prohibitory legislation.
3.—That if a vote be taken opportunity shall also be given the voters to say whether they are in favor of what is called "bone dry" legislation.
4.—That in any case there be no plebiscite until the public have had ample time to learn exactly what proposals are to be submitted for their decision, and to consider what will be the effect if either or all of them are sanctioned.
As to the first request it is to be supposed that no vote will be taken unless the petitioners with the requirements of the act. Beyond appearances neither the special committee nor the legislature can be held responsible. It is not practicable to verify thousands of signatures purporting to have been affixed by people in all parts of the province, nor does the law impose any such impossible duty upon the members. Unless in such case it is that mistakes have been resorted to, or that mistakes have been so frequent as to disqualify the petition, the legislature can not be held responsible for the provisions of the act have been complied with. Admittedly that is much like saying that the legislature must proceed upon guess-work, but it has to be done if direct legislation is to be workable.

The proposals of the legislature regarding the plebiscite, if one be held, are reasonable. That sufficient time should be allowed the voters to find out exactly what they are asked to decide, and to permit a general and adequate discussion of the probable results, cannot be objected to anywhere around.
That, if a referendum is to be taken, the ballot should provide opportunity for the expression of the voters' opinion as to continuing the present law, and strengthening its prohibitory features, seems a fair proposition. A referendum costs money, and a lot of it. If the expense has to be incurred it is desirable that we should get the most possible out of it, in the way of finding out whether the public want something different, and if so precisely what.

But has the legislature power to broaden out the issue in this way? The Direct Legislation act provides that a stipulated percentage of the electors may petition the legislature to secure the enactment of a proposed bill, and the petitioners must accompany their petition with a copy of the bill they want to become law. The legislature then has two alternatives: It may pass the bill, without amendment, at the session then being held; or it may submit the measure for the approval of the voters. If the latter course is taken, and the measure secures popular endorsement. "The said proposed" act shall be enacted by the legislature at its next session without amendment.

The hotelmen have not asked to know what the public think about continuing the present law, or about making it more prohibitory, or about establishing a system of government dispensaries. They have asked for the submission to the voters of a ready-made bill giving them the right to sell beer in the hotels, and for nothing else. It is not apparent where the legislature gets any power to amend that bill, either before submission or after, or to otherwise import into a referendum question which the petitioners did not include and presumably do not want included. If the Direct Legislation act means what it says, and what it still more plainly seems to mean, there are just two things the legislature can do: It can submit the beer bill, and nothing but that; or it can amend or repeal the Direct Legislation act.
It is unfortunate, beyond doubt, that the powers of the legislature are circumscribed in this way. But it has to be recalled that it was the very purpose of the Direct Legislation act to so circumscribe the powers of the legislature. That measure was enacted to take the law-making function out of the hands of the law-making body, whenever a sufficient minority of the voters desired; and seemingly it does that very thing. Of course, having been created by the legislature, the act can be changed or abolished by the legislature. But while the act remains in its present form it seems to leave the legislature in the ridiculous position of having to stand aside when twenty per cent. of the electors say so, regardless of how little likely the proposed bill may be to secure a popular verdict, and of how great may be the expense thrust upon the taxpayers for holding a plebiscite.

It is not the beer petition that has put the legislators in the corner; it is the Direct Legislation act. A petition for a plebiscite on any other question would have put the members in the same predicament and the province to the same expense. If the legislature is minded to resume its proper function as the law-making body of the province the present situation would seem to provide the inducement and offer a fitting occasion.

DECEIVING THE PUBLIC

The agreement between the U.M.W.A. of district 18, (Alberta and South Eastern B.C.) and the association of coal mine operators as to wages, hours and working conditions now in force ends on March 31st. Preliminary meetings looking to an agreement for the year, beginning April 1st have been held between the representatives of the U.M.W.A. and the operators. Information has been sent out that the U.M.W.A. offered to sign a renewal of the present agreement, and that their proposal was refused by the operators. Enquiry as to the facts discloses that the offer to renew the present agreement had a rather long string to it. The following is a copy of the proposal made by the U.M.W.A.:

- Box 1844, Calgary, Alberta

J. Division of weight-pan and screen from wind.
K. Division of material.

N. Transportation.
O. Electric lights.
(3) That the General Clause of the 1932-33 Agreement remain the same.

B. Shaw, R. Bennett, R. Macpherson, Secretary
C. Burrows, J. Lynch, W. A. Sherman.

Further enquiry by the operators as to the meaning attached to the term "adjustment of irregularities" brought the following list of items to which the term was intended to apply and which it was intended should be the subject of adjustment outside and over and above the questions of wages, hours and working conditions, as presently understood.

- INEQUALITIES
Sub-District No. 1
CASHING—Nigger, timber, dockage, timber, timber.
MICHIE—Impurities, timber, dockage, division of work.
COBURN—Division of work, pushing of cars, electric lamps.
Sub-District No. 2
BLAIRMORE—Miners tools, pushing in entries, timber, powder, division of work, transportation.
HELVET—Impurities, timber, single shift, delivery of material, over-pushing.
Sub-District No. 3
LEITHBRIDGE, KIPP and CHINGO—Bone.
GALT—Impurities, timber, dockage, timber, timber.
LEITHBRIDGE—Over-shovel, pushing, electric lights, bone, timber, timber.
GALT MINES—Drilling machines.
CHINGO COAL CO.—Delivery of machine piece.
Sub-District No. 4
CAMMORE—Niggerhead both seams, post timbering, sanitation, tool sharpening eliminated, pushing in Carey seam, pay statement, mine trip, electric lights, bone, rent, wet place.
NORRIDGE—Impurities, tool sharpening eliminated, sanitation, pushing post, dockage, wet place, timbering.
Sub-District No. 5
DRUMHELLER—Impurities, niggerheads, bone and cap rock. Two places for each mine, inequality where coal is taken, timber, statement of wages, water, bone, niggerheads and impurities, standardization of scale, timber, statement of work.
WAYNE—(Commercial and Rosedale Mines) Baiting water, bone, niggerheads and impurities. It may place for each mine, timber, statement of wages, water, bone, niggerheads and impurities. (Rosedale) Division of work, prices on pillars in (Star Mine) Timbering.
Sub-District No. 6
CADOMIN—Engineer rates. Prices for driving three horse team inside, over-pushing to be in contract, wet place, electric lights, timbering.

It is obvious that a wage agreement leaving so many "irregularities" to be "adjusted" at a greater or less cost in money to the operator, did not give him any substantial basis for figuring and the cost of coal to the consumer, but assuredly meant an increase of the cost of production over that of last year.
While giving out to the public the idea that they were not demanding an increase in wages that would mean an increase in the cost of coal, as a matter of fact they had prepared to impose conditions that certainly and substantially would increase that cost.

WHY TAXES GO UP.

The public school levy for the year is $27,000 more than for last year. If the school board had not decided to prevent "free" books to the pupils it would have been only $12,000 more. If the junior high schools were cut out the increase would disappear altogether. The boost in taxes is not due to increased attendance at the schools, but to lack of desire to cut expenses in the school board.

HUNDREDS SEARCH IN WINNIPEG FOR TWO MISSING BOYS

WINNIPEG, March 11.—Hope the missing boys, who have been missing since Wednesday afternoon, are alive, now has been announced. An exhaustive search carried on in the past four days has failed to reveal the slightest clue to justify hopes for their safety. The suggestion that they might have been kidnapped is dismissed as an idle theory.
It is the general belief tonight that the boys, who were last seen together, wandered down to the river and fell into a hole in the ice. Open areas have been dragged without result, and today search parties extended the search farther out into the river by cutting through the ice, but the bodies may have been carried down the channel by the tide.
Wednesday and today saw a search for the children which has not been known previously in this city. Hundreds of boys sought turned out, citizens by the score joined in the hunt.

BANDIT NOW EMPEROR

LONDON.—The world's most famous bandit is now a respectable gentleman. Ahmed Ben Mohammed Hanebi, whose kidnapping of an American in 1924 prompted President Roosevelt's ultimatum "Terrorism alive or dead will die," is enforcing peace and order in his god-forsaken domain in Spanish Morocco.

He is employing the same tactics that he did when his trawler banditry started the world and nearly shook the outfit of Morocco from its throne. When the abolition of Terrorism almost involved the country in serious complications, he left his go-fence for a price.
Since then Hanebi has been after on his fellow Moroccan and resistant Spanish race.
About 18 months ago a Spanish army ran away, Spanish territories were looted, captured and the soldiers massacred and General Silveira was killed. He, the body disappearing from the battlefield.
All this, Hanebi said, the general opinion caused the very idea of colonial expansion with the threat to the lives of their sons, the conscription strikes the higher taxes. The government took prompt action against some of the army officers held responsible for the Moroccan defeat.
But at the bottom of it all was Hanebi. He was, Hanebi said, a price.
"He was made ruler of the district" to make his position secure, Hanebi has just this afternoon, after he had been in the area for some time, released about 400 Spanish prisoners, including 400 women and children.
Spain at the same time released her Moroccan prisoners. The release of the Spaniards cost the government about one million dollars—mainly tribute money.
